Masashi Abe is Consulting Manager at IHP and leads the consulting team in the field working with clients to assess how hospital data relates to human resource allocation and infrastructure investments in pursuing hospital operational improvements.

Abe-san started his career at a large Japanese trading company with management roles in sales. In 2005 Abe-san joined a mid-sized acute care hospital where he was responsible for establishing the hospital's corporate health exam center. After taking roles in patient outreach and community hospital relations, Abe-san was promoted to Senior Manager of Operations at the hospital with responsibilities in financial enhancement initiatives, department performance improvement and corporate planning.
